It is said that in the days of Prohibition, rum and whiskey were unloaded from passing ships along the rugged Inverness coastline and into select local fishing boats. The fishermen would then bring the crates of bottles ashore, and hide them in hay wagons at the wharf, from there to be transported and distributed to the thirsty, but dry, communities throughout the area.

We have come a long way since those days. Cape Breton Lobster has become world-class cuisine. Our tuna, halibut and other fresh seafood are transported around the world to the finest kitchens, from the Americas to Europe and Asia, and all points in between.

We are fortunate, at times, to find ourselves immersed in an ever-shrinking world. Wines and spirits from locations which used to be considered exotic are now here at our front door. Local connoisseurs of fine beverages, from wine to beer, whiskeys, rum, gin, vodka and more have taken their passion for the product and introduced a local spin. In less than a generation, Cape Breton Island and Nova Scotia have launched themselves into world-class beverage production. Winning awards and surprising visitors with unique flavors based on the familiar tasting notes of international classic labels.

Here at Cabot, we work to mirror that experience in everything we do, surprising our guests with a golf and vacation experience that is world-class, fresh yet traditional - marked by the land and the people who have nurtured this place, whose passion will drive our growth in the coming years. We are proud to share their passion and influences in our Beverage program.
